FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS:

(1) Q: I am an officer of AP. Am I automatically covered in all trading blackouts declared on AEV securities?

A: NOT NECESSARILY. As a rule, you are covered by trading blackouts on AEV securities declared in relation to the release of quarterly and annual financial results of AEV. Because of the materiality of AP's financial results vis-à-vis AEV's financial results, trading blackouts on AEV securities relating to the release of quarterly and annual financial results of AEV are made applicable to all AP directors and officers, and certain AP team members who are deemed to have knowledge of AEV's financial results.

However, there may be trading blackouts declared on AEV securities for reasons other than the release of AEV financial results. In such instances, the Compliance Officer determines who are covered by such trading blackouts on a case to case basis.

(2) Q: In relation to question no. 1 above, how do I know then if I am covered by a trading blackout involving AEV securities?

A: If you are in receipt of a trading blackout advisory on AEV securities from the Compliance Officer, then you must not trade in AEV securities until the trading blackout is lifted.

(3) Q: I am an officer of AP and I acquired AEV shares. Should I report this purchase?

A: NO. The Securities Regulation Code and its Implementing Rules and PSE disclosure rules only require that directors and officers of a publicly listed corporation should report their beneficial ownership of the securities of such corporation. You are only required to report your beneficial ownership of AP shares.

(4) Q: I am an officer of AP and my wife purchased 500 common shares of AP. Do I still have to report this purchase?

A: YES. As an officer of AP, you are required not only to report your direct ownership of AP securities, but also AP securities:

- (i) Held by members of your immediate family sharing the same household;
- (ii) Held by a partnership in which you are a general partner;
- (iii) Held by a corporation of which you are the controlling shareholder; and
- (iv) Subject to any contract, arrangement or understanding which gives you voting power or investment power with respect to such securities.
