A. Commitment to a Common Purpose for the Company

The Board of Directors commits to serve and promote the best interest of the Company.

The Directors owe their duty and responsibility to the Company and in the process promote the long-term sustainability and success of the Company in a manner consistent with the evolving corporate governance best practices.

B. The Governance Style of the Board

1. The Board will govern with an emphasis on:

- a. Outward vision rather than an internal preoccupation;
- b. Strategic leadership more than administrative detail;
- c. Clear distinction of board and chief executive roles;
- d. Collective rather than individual decisions;
- e. Future rather than past or present; and
- f. Proactivity rather than reactivity.

2. In view of the above, the Board commits to:

- a. Deliberate in many voices, but govern as one.
- b. Cultivate a sense of group responsibility.

The Board, not management, will be primarily responsible for excellence in governance. The Board will be an initiator of policies. The Board will use the expertise of individual members to enhance the ability of the Board as a body, rather than to substitute the individual judgments for the board’s values.

- c. Direct, control and inspire the organization through the careful establishment of broad written policies reflecting the Board’s values and perspectives.
- d. Enforce upon itself whatever discipline is needed to govern with excellence.
- e. Discipline will apply to matters such as attendance, preparation for meetings, policymaking principles, respect of roles, and ensuring the continuity of governance capability. Continual Board development will include orientation of new members in the Board’s governance process and periodic Board discussion of process improvement. The Board will not allow any Corporate Officer, individual, or committee of the Board to hinder or be an excuse for not fulfilling its commitments.
- f. Regularly monitor and discuss the Board’s process and performance.
- g. Establish a group-wide integrated management approach to support the Company’s commitment to environmental stewardship (including material global climate issues), health and safety, corporate social responsibility, corporate governance and ethical practices, management of human capital in accordance with labor standards and international best practices, and other public policy matters relevant to the Company and its stakeholders (collectively, “Environmental, Social, and Governance Matters” or “ESG Matters”) by providing guidance to the management in (i) setting the Company’s general strategy relating to ESG Matters, as well as developing, implementing, and monitoring initiatives and policies at the Company based on that strategy; (ii) overseeing communications with employees, investors, and other stakeholders of the Company with respect to ESG Matters; and (iii) monitoring and anticipating developments relating to, and improving the Company's understanding of, ESG Matters.

C. Duties and Responsibilities of the Board

The Board through its members and committees shall perform the following duties and responsibilities:

1. Articulate a corporate culture and ensure that it is lived.

The Board shall set the standards of appropriate behavior by prescribing Corporate Values and a Code of Ethics and Business Conduct to be imbibed by the Directors, Corporate Officers, and employees of the Company and its subsidiaries.

2. Set the appropriate moral tone and corporate social responsibility.
3. Approve and periodically review the corporate vision and mission.
4. Help formulate and subsequently set the Company's strategic directions.

To ensure continuity, the Board shall also put in place an effective succession plan for the President and/Chief Executive Officer, all the members of the Board, and key executive positions.
9. Conduct an assessment of its performance in relation to its set targets in the preceding year. The Board shall also review the performance of the President and Chief Executive Officer, to include identified key executives.
10. Keep its authority within the powers of the institution as prescribed in its charter and existing laws, rules, and regulations.
11. Maintain the highest standard of integrity, fairness, transparency, and accountability.
12. Commit to a professional development program for the Board and its members. For this purpose, the Board in coordination with the Board Corporate Governance Committee shall develop and promulgate a formal professional development program for the Board and the Directors.
13. Establish and provide a broad framework for ESG integration within the Aboitiz Group and consider ESG Matters or social/environmental impact objectives as part of the Group's decision-making and investment processes.

3. The monthly allowance and per diem allowances shall be reviewed from time to time to ensure that these reflect the industry standards.

G. Board Leadership and the Role of the Chairman

1. The Chairman shall exercise independent judgment, act objectively, and ensure (alongside the President and Chief Executive Officer) that all relevant matters are included in the agenda and prioritized properly, giving more weight to “performance duties” (i.e. strategy and policy) over “compliance duties” (i.e. monitoring and accountability). In addition, the Chairman shall:
 - a. Ensure that all the Directors are fully involved and informed of any business issue on which a decision has to be taken.
 - b. Determine the annual Board Plan and Agenda and other strategic issues with the assistance of the Corporate Secretary and the President and Chief Executive Officer.
 - c. Ensure that the meeting agenda focuses on strategic matters, including the overall risk appetite of the Company, considering the developments in the business and regulatory environments, key governance concerns, and contentious issues that will significantly affect operations;

- e. Ensure that the Board sufficiently challenges and inquires on reports submitted and representations made by Management;

- c. Working understanding of finance as well as accounts and reports systems;
- d. Excellent leadership and communication skills;
- e. Appropriate training in corporate governance and professional directorship; and
- f. Limited number of other directorships.

3. In the event that the Chairman is not independent, the Board should, as a rule, designate a lead director among the Independent Directors. The functions of the lead director include the following:

- a. Serves as an intermediary between the Chairman and the other Directors when necessary;
- b. Convenes and chairs meetings of the Non-Executive Directors; and
- c. Contributes to the performance evaluation of the Chairman, as required.

H. The Board Director

A Director should be aware of his role and appreciate the crucial differences between management and direction. He should have an understanding of the legal framework within which they operate. A Director should have a good understanding of a Board's operation and how to ensure its effectiveness

In this regard, the following are the basic qualities and competencies that a Board Director should possess or endeavor to acquire:

- 1. Strategic business direction;
- 2. Basic principles and practice of finance and accounting;
- 3. Human resource direction;
- 4. Improving business performance; and
- 5. Organizing for the future.

With the above, the Director is therefore expected to:

- 1. Owe his duty of care and loyalty to the Company.
- 2. Respect and uphold all decisions made by the Board as a collegial body.
- 3. Devote time and attention necessary to properly discharge his duties and responsibilities.
- 4. Observe prudence in the handling of sensitive Company information.
- 5. Undergo a seminar on corporate governance principles, on relevant laws and charters applicable to the Company and the Board, and on the various businesses of the Company upon appointment to the Board.

I. The Independent Director

1. Selection and Election of the Independent Directors

Independent Directors are elected to provide the Board with an objective “compass” to determine the best interests of the Company and all its stakeholders. These Directors should not be related to any group or management. Furthermore, they cannot or should not be instruments of one group for the purpose of pushing their own sectoral agenda. Their independence must be perceived as such by stakeholders, the beneficiaries, and the general public.

In view thereof, the Board of Directors commits to, within the purview of existing legal framework, elect qualified and Independent Directors to the Board of the Company.

To be considered independent, a Director shall, apart from his fees and shareholdings, hold no interests or relationships with the Company that may hinder his independence from the Company, Management, or shareholders which could, or could reasonably be perceived to, materially interfere with his exercise of independent judgment in carrying out his responsibilities as a Director of the Company. For this purpose, an Independent Director shall submit to the Corporate Secretary a letter of confirmation stating that he holds no interests affiliated with the Company, Management, or controlling shareholder at the time of his election or appointment and/or re-election as a Director.

The Board Corporate Governance Committee shall be primarily tasked to draw up a plan of getting such Independent Directors to the Board and ensure that there will always be a minimum of three (3) Independent Directors at any one time.

2. Qualifications of an Independent Director

An Independent Director of the Board must be:

- a. An independent director as defined by the Securities Regulation Code, its Implementing Rules and Regulations and relevant SEC rules and regulations;

- d. At least twenty-one (21) years old;
- e. Proven to possess integrity and probity;
- f. Assiduous, and willing to devote time and effort to the responsibilities of being a Director of the Company; and

J. The President and Chief Executive Officer

All Board authority delegated to management is delegated through the President, so that all authority and accountability of management – as far as the Board is concerned – is considered to be the authority and accountability of the President.

1. The Board will specify to the President of the Company the strategic directions and expects him to achieve certain results based on a set of measures/milestones and targets that had been clearly communicated and understood.
2. As long as the President uses any reasonable interpretation of the Board’s directions, the President is authorized to establish all further policies, make all decisions, take all actions, establish all practices, and develop all initiatives.
3. Only decisions of the Board acting as a body are binding upon the President.
4. Decisions or instructions of individual board members, Corporate Officers, or committees are not binding on the President except in rare circumstances when the Board has specifically authorized such exercise of authority.
5. In the case of board members or committees requesting information or assistance without Board authorization, the President can refuse such requests that require – in the President’s judgment – a material amount of staff time or funds or are disruptive.
